CVPOA looks toward review of Master Plan

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association (CVPOA) Board of Directors held their monthly meeting Wednesday, March 8.

The CVPOA Board decided at the beginning of the year that it was important to maintain a balance between old and incoming Board members. To achieve this balance, two incoming Board members volunteered to serve a one year term instead of the usual two.

The CVPOA has set forth as a 1995 objective to study the necessity of a comprehensive review of the Carmel Valley Master Plan. Currently the Carmel Valley Master Plan is revised in a piecemeal fashion and the CVPOA believes a comprehensive review could add to the integrity and usefulness of the Master Plan. The CVPOA approached the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and received their approval to hold informative public forums on the Carmel Valley Master Plan. The Board of Supervisors agreed to provide staff to assist the CVPOA but made clear that in doing so they are not agreeing to a review of the Carmel Valley Master Plan at this time, only to gather more information.

The CVPOA will facilitate morning, afternoon and evening forums on each of three Master Plan topics being general description, environment and development and implementation. The goals of these nine forums will be to educate the public about the current Carmel Valley Master Plan and to solicit the opinions of Carmel Valley residents. The CVPOA will report their findings to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

Gillian Taylor, CVPOA Director and member of the Carmel Valley Trails Committee (CVTC), and Rod Mills, Chair of the CVTC, presented a brief report on the Carmel Valley Trails Plan and asked for the endorsement of the CVPOA. The CVTC was formed of nine citizen volunteers by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to devise a trails plan to comply with the Carmel Valley Master Plan. While the Carmel Valley Master Plan was

Mid Valley Fire rescuers worked quickly during a single car accident on Carmel Valley Road last Sunday. Marci Williams of Carmel Valley and Patricia Otken of Pacific Grove died when Otken's 1991 Nissan Sentra drove over the south shoulder of CVR, down across Scarlett Road and then tumbled down an eighty foot embankment. Lance Builta of Carmel Valley, a passenger in the front seat survived the accident. The yearly death total on Carmel Valley Road now rises to 3 for 1995.

"Everything that lives, lives not alone, nor for itself." William Blake

Many volunteers responded to Blake's sentiments during this last flood crisis. They are the people that create the spirit of community that is Carmel Valley.

Among the first to respond were local construction personnel. The call went out that Rosie's Bridge, Lower Circle and Camp Steffanie roads were impassable in many areas. Those with backhoes, bulldozers, dump trucks arrived and donated over $10,000 worth of time and material to construct a temporary path that would allow resident access and utility repair.

Leading the "road knights" was Dan Weiss. Joining him were Dave Potter, Dave Henderson, Tim Smith, Roberto Villalobos, Leon des Vargas, Armando Guzman, Jim Summerville, Kevin Azevedo, Steve Wendt, Gary Azevedo, Brandon Hardsty, Rod Lambert, David Casarus, Kirk Gayman, Gary Paddock, and a crew from Carmel Valley Trucking. I know this is not a complete list. Please let me know the names and I apologize for any misspelled names.

Volunteer students from the Defense Language Institute, along with volunteers from the Marines, worked house by house clearing out contaminated mud and debris. The effects of their exhausting labor were silently displayed by heads lying across folded arms on tables when they took a dinner break.

Local groups and neighbors have donated their time and food along with the Red Cross to feed the volunteers and survivors. Carmel Valley resident and enterpeneur, Bubba Shobert brought in "Steers and Ears", his oven on wheels and served baked corn on the cob and potatoes. The Tularcitos Parents Club provided a spaghetti dinner.

The Carmel Valley Rotary Club catered a chicken dinner. Staffing the grill and buffet were Rick Briscoe, Karen Kingeri, Fred Crummey, Ron Shimizu, John Auld-Susott and Rick Shea.

The parish of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley has established a Flood Relief Fund to aid area survivors with clean-up. There have been many other individuals contributing funds for food and clean-up supplies. Randy Randazzo delivered batteries to the area. The Carmel Valley Community Chapel Thrift Shop is donating clothing and bedding items to survivors.

These are some of those who live life willing to reflect Blakes' sentiments and connect with all life by giving. Survivors have expressed their thanks for all the work and services donated by volunteers and agencies.

OBITUARIES

THOMAS P. GOLDEN

Thomas P. Golden, 81, of Carmel Valley, died March 11 at the Hospice House of Monterey.

Born December 4, 1913 in Ireland, Mr. Golden had lived in Carmel Valley and Monterey County for the past 17 years. He worked as a market researcher for the Motorola Company for 27 years. He was a graduate of De LaSalle Institute in Chicago.

He leaves his wife, Phyllis Golden, of Carmel Valley and two sisters, Mary and Cecilia of San Francisco.

Cremation was at The Little Chapel By The Sea followed by a private inurement.

The family asks that memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice House, 100 Barnet Segal Lane, Monterey, CA 93940.

FRANK CHARLES CRISPO

Frank Charles Crispo, 85, of Monterey, died Sunday at Crestwood Convalescent Hospital.

Born January 1, 1910 in Bronx, New York, Mr. Crispo worked for his father's produce business in New York, then went on to Chicago to form his own brokerage business. He was a boxer in the Golden Gloves Championship. A welterweight, he represented the American Athletic Club of New York City. During World War II, he organized the 5 day work week in the produce market of New York. He later founded Trans-Lux Crispo - the "Dow Jones" of the produce industry.

In 1955 he moved his family to Carmel and set up a brokerage distributing business with his brothers in Salinas and Phoenix, and a growing and shipping company, Cal-Zona Farms. What he enjoyed the most was the shop he and his wife opened on Cannery Row, a shop specializing in Asian Antiques. He became the Honorary Mayor of Cannery Row because of his concern for small businesses in the area. Everyone on Cannery Row called him "Uncle Frank". Mr. Crispo was president of the Cannery Row Merchants Association from 1976-77 and was vice president of the California Coastal Council.

He is survived by his wife, Irene, of Monterey; two sons, George of Fairfax and Dick of Carmel; a daughter, Marilyn Miller of Cupertino; two brothers, Paul Crispo of Monterey and Victor Crispo of Carefree, Arizona; a sister, Viola Balestreri of Monterey; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Cremation has been under the direction of Mission Mortuary. A memorial gathering will be held at a later date. The family asks any memorial contributions be made to Meals on Wheels Auxiliary of Pacific Grove, 700 Jewell Ave, P.G., CA 93950 or the Blind and Visually Impaired Center of Pacific Grove, 225 Laurel Ave., P.G., CA 93950.

Barrett Memorial Scholarship open for applications

Applications are now available through the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District for an educational scholarship in the amount of $500.

Graduating High School students with enrollment plans for a full course of study at an accredited college or university starting in the 1995/96 school year are encouraged to apply for the scholarship.

Applicants must be recommended by a member of the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District. Information on how to apply and applications can be obtained by calling 624-5907 or stopping by the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station, 8455 Carmel Valley Road, anytime Monday through Friday.

The scholarship fund was established in memory of Jim Barrett, who served as Fire Chief for Mid Carmel Valley Fire District until his tragic death in March, 1986. Jim was former Chief of Turlock Rural Fire District in Turlock, where his wife and family still reside. Through the generosity of his family and friends both from Turlock and Mid Carmel Valley areas, a dual scholarship fund was established to recognize and provide aid to high school students from both areas.

Applications should be turned in to the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station. The deadline to receive the applications is May 15, 1995. Recipients of the scholarship will be determined by the Scholarship Fund Trustees comprised by Sharon Barrett, Anne McGowan, Director of the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District and Jack Wilkey of Turlock.

Tularcitos students build the car of the future

As national finalists in the Erector Auto Design Challenge, Mr. Phil Smith's class at the Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley is building a 3-D model of their design for a car of the future, using 2,560 Erector Set pieces.

The class was selected as one of 40 finalists from across the country to build the car they designed, which includes innovative safety devices and creative design features.

If their model is selected as one of the 10 winners, it will be unveiled by the program's National Chairman, Racing Legend Mario Andretti, at the New York International Auto Show in April and displayed along with a life size Indy-style race car made from Erector pieces as part of an educational exhibit.

Cachagua interest groups file suit to challenge Water Board

By Elizabeth Cowley

A group of Cachagua viticulturists, citizens, and the Essalen Indian Tribe of Monterey County have brought suit against the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) regarding the Environmental Impact Report (EIR) prepared for the Proposed New Los Padres Dam (NLPD). The parties are seeking an injunction against further action on the NLPD until a supplemental draft EIR is completed and recirculated for public comment.

The plaintiffs, Galante Vineyards, Rancho Galante, Bernardus, Durney Vineyard, Citizens for Alternative Water Solutions, established in 1992, and the Essalen Tribe of Monterey County believe the MPWMD did not satisfy the California Environmental Quality Act in their preparation of the EIR for the NLPD. The plaintiffs allege that the EIR is insufficient in several areas including the setting, air quality and climate change, traffic and circulation, visual impacts and the impact on viticulture. Furthermore, the NLPD is in conflict with the Monterey Peninsula General Plan and the Cachagua Area Plan.

The EIR states that Cachagua has "no industry other than several vineyards" which the plaintiffs believe drastically mischaracterizes Cachagua land use, as almost one quarter of the land in the planning area is used for wine grape production. As the EIR began with an incorrect premise, it does not analyze any of the impacts of the NLPD on Cachagua viticulture.

The plaintiffs believe the EIR failed to adequately analyze and mitigate air quality degradation from vehicle exhaust; the EIR analyzed average rather than peak exhaust figures. The mitigation suggested for the air quality degradation is an on-site work camp which is unfeasible and if instituted could create more trips rather than less. Fugitive dust from clearing and grubbing of the area could obstruct sunlight, decrease CO2 absorption in grape plants and increase the plants susceptibility to insect infestation, none of which was discussed in the EIR. In addition, this smoke and dust could be trapped in the valley due to the Cachagua air inversion patterns.

The EIR acknowledges that the NLPD will change the Cachagua climate up to 5 degrees but did not address the extreme sensitivity of the local agriculture to humidity and temperature.

The road into Cachagua is very narrow and winding; impossible or very difficult for large vehicles used in construction. The plaintiffs allege the EIR failed to adequately analyze the effects of additional truck and large vehicle traffic on the road and the improvements needed to accommodate these additional trips.

In relation to the visual effects of the NLPD, the EIR states that "the proposed NLPD would affect views from private lands which are currently underdeveloped", and that "opinions would differ as to whether the views from these lands would be impaired or enhanced". Mr. Galante of Galante Vineyards commented that "I can not imagine anyone who would prefer to look at a concrete wall instead of the forest and trees."

As the EIR does not properly identify Cachagua land use, it does not correspond with the Monterey County General Plan which aims to promote and protect the agribusiness base in Monterey County and discourages incompatible land uses. In addition, the EIR mischaracterizes the nature and extent of visual impacts and thus fails to analyze inconsistencies between the NLPD and the Cachagua Area Plan and the Monterey County General Plan which set forth to protect the visual integrity of the Cachagua area.

In an effort to thwart the suit, MPWMD was prepared to charge the plaintiffs $27,000 for a copy of the record. The "record" for this purpose is all of the official documentation of the NLPD which spans over 12 years. The group of small businesses, citizens and the Essalen Indians could not afford this amount and Judge Silver required that the MPWMD greatly reduce "the record" to include only relevant documentation.

The plaintiffs are asking for the court to order injunctive relief, stopping all work until the matter is resolved and for the MPWMD to set aside their approval of the project until CEQA is satisfied prior to further consideration. The hearing for this suit will be on May 26, 1995.

New Library for All Saints School

Emily Overesch Castle wanted to do something special for the children at All Saints Day School in Carmel Valley. So special, in fact, that she built them a library.

A friend to the school, Mrs. Castle has donated the entire cost and furnishings for a 3,200 square foot library including computers and a fireplace.

Head librarian Annette Brehmer says "The kids are super excited. They just love it and many are even spending their recesses in here.

The new library holds over 8,000 books and is large enough to grow in new books for 8-10 years. "In several months, we hope to have Internet."

Laurie Boone Hogen, headmistress at All Saints, is "grateful to a wonderful patron for giving us an academic center for the school. The new library allows the school to spread out books in a cozy atmosphere for children and gives access to new technology. Three grade levels can utilize the space at once.

The Emily Everesch Castle Library took three years from the original idea to opening day ceremonies on February 22, 1995.

95% of "Human Race" proceeds go to TASK's youth endeavors

For the fourth year, Take A Stand for Kids (TASK) will walk in the 10K Human Race on Saturday, May 13th. And a big bouquet of flowers from Susanna and Carl Gamble's Carmel Valley Flower Farm will be awarded to a lucky TASK volunteer walker.

According to TASK founder, Janet Hurley, proceeds from last year's Human Race enabled TASK to reach over 1,000 people in Monterey County with information about the many aspects of child abuse. All TASK programs are presented free.

TASK has led the Human Race for the past three years in money collected. According to Hurley, TASK's secret is organization. TASK walkers are organized into teams with captains. The captains hold a rally and let walkers know what prizes they can win if they bring in the most money in their division," Hurley explained.

Hurley explained that TASK is a volunteer group so that over 95 cents of each dollar raised goes directly into the programs TASK presents to break the cycle of child abuse.

"We have only one fund-raiser each year, the Human Race", Hurley said. "We establish our budget from Race proceeds and use the rest of our time and energy to take a stand for kids."

If you'd like to help TASK in the Human Race, call Race Chair Margaret Robbins at 624-1153.

The Gory That Was Grease... The recent floods wreaked true devastation. By comparison, the loyal participants in the First Big Cleanup of 1995 at the CVLL Park confronted a mere molehill of tiring detritus. However, even mere molehills may be daunting when composed of broken glass (thanks, vandals; at least you missed the library at Alexandria this time), several pounds of windblown dust carrying last year's leaves, a broken pencil or two, several awesome aspects of arachnidan architecture, Sno-Cone and Slurpy grafitti dribbled on the walls, and the entire ensemble held together by a strong bond forged within the volcanic bowels of the deep fat fryer. So who cleans up, you ask?

On that particular work day the likes of Jim Shakal scraped vigorously at the earthen underpinnings of the New Field, while in the silent snack bar none other than Our Maximum Leader, President Mike Thatcher, initiated an all-out onslaught against the forces of moth, rust, dust, and post-season congealed pre-cholesterol multi-glicerides. Jim was invited to participate with heavy machinery but refused to contaminate his back-hoe by touching the walls. Rags and industrial-strength detergent were brought up as reinforcements, and both Peters Dew and Lyon soon joined the fray. Result: a Herculean task, a marathon effort, Draconian measures, only a memory of ancient grease, and now the renovation of prandial haven after a glorious homer.

Rules... As we approach March 25th and the first games of the season (first Official Games--the Cubs and Toros already put on a great show), we all ask you to keep a few simple rules in mind.

1. Please drive VERY SLOWLY in the CVLL parking lot. A five year old is much smaller than a Bronco--of any color.

2. Use Paso Cresta as you drive to the field, Paso Hondo as you drive home with your proud player who just won the game ball.

3. Please no smoking in the stands, near the snack bar, or near the dug-outs. Actually, we would like to keep the entire CVLL Park a smoke-free area. Thanks. (Besides, we know someone whose golden retrievers just simply DETEST tobacco smoke and tend to take appropriate action.)

Gene-etic response... We've had quite reaction to the bit on the Vandervort family. Thirty-seven people, all of them Vandervorts living here in CV, called to add to our story. Look for further details in an edition of the Sun coming your way soon.

Help!... Get the Menke off our backs! Larry has generously donated a bright new Neon to the CVLL at a very reasonable rate. We are selling all of you--yes, ALL of you--chances on that shining car for only $20.00 a ticket. Many local stores present you with opportunities to buy. So does each and every board member. This is a major fund-raiser for CVLL. If we can't sell enough tickets, the car goes back and we have to give all your money back as well. Please prevent another disaster in CV. Buy NOW!

VALLEY VOICE
Fran Farina

Two ribbons tie Carmel Valley together--the river and the road. Attention is focused on the river as it continues to display a force which most of us cannot comprehend.

As I sit here and write this, it is just one week since the General Manager of the Water District called to inform me that we expected flows in the Carmel River one and one half to two times that which we experienced in January. It was going to be very bad.

The numbness begins to overwhelm you when you hear this kind of news. Your brain wants to shut down at a time when it needs to be as keen as possible. I shook off the stupor and reached for the phone.

Lance Monosoff was the homeowner in Mission Fields who first reported problems with the levee in January. We've worked together on local projects for the past six years. I called to tell him the bad news about the expected river flows as well as the good news - the county was going to breech the levee this time.

Next call was to Rick Tooker. I couldn't reach him. Both Lance and Rick have been trying to help the residents of Mission Fields organize a response plan to these kinds of emergencies. Who would have anticipated that another would come so soon?

The rain is coming down in buckets. I look out the window and see the river rising. Maybe this is what Noah felt like during the flood. When will it stop?

Someone's at the front door. I open it and have two firemen from Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District advising me that I should prepare to evacuate. I take them on my property so they can see the condition of the river.

Two hours later the firemen are back. It's a mandatory evacuation within five hours. Make your final preparations. The rain continues. The river is already higher than it was in January. This can't be happening.

The rain stops for a brief time. I go out for my last view of the property and take photographs. What will be here when I return?

I return within 20 hours. The river has receded enough for me to get down to the river bank. As I make my way through the vegetation, I look across the river. I can't believe what I see. Three houses which were never visible before stand naked at the edge of what is now the river bank. It is collapsing even more as I watch. People have rappelled down the bank and are attempting to place sandbags at river level. The current is so swift, I fear someone will get swept away and drown.

The view upstream is equally depressing. Huge sections of the bank are gone. It's almost as if someone had dropped bombs and these were the craters that were left.

Get back on the phone. How can you best help? Who needs help the most? Don't let a day go by without doing something to help. Everyone who is able must help.....

Special Interest Group lobbying in Sacramento.

That was the subject of my last commentary, in which I told you about the forty-five million dollars spent in 1993 by what I called the local government/public employee Special Interests.

Let's examine the situation a little more closely, starting with how much each of the four sub-groups within that category paid their lobbyists:

Local Government...$16.3 million
Health Agencies..... 15.4 million
Public Employees ..... 7.7 million
Education ..... 5.6 million

More than 200 local governments - counties, cities, special districts - employ lobbyists. Their costs, largely funded by your taxes, ranged from Los Angeles County's $630,693 to the Big Bear Lake Municipal Water District's $465, including overhead expense. The City of Los Angeles spent $414,204 and the much smaller city of Pacifica (San Mateo County) spent $1,047 for lobbying. Butte County, near bankruptcy only two or three years ago because their supervisors were such profligate spenders, paid $34,892 for lobbying to get a bigger share of funding from state legislators.

That $5.6 million spent by the education lobby in 1993 included $474,453 by the financially troubled Los Angeles Unified School District, whose trustees each year clamor for more local property parcel tax, fee and assessment authority.

Public employee groups led by the California Teacher's Association (the top-spending individual lobbyist employer at $2.8 million) spent $7.7 million. Public employee unions dominate at committee hearings in Sacramento as advocates of more spending - for their own salaries and benefits, as well as for programs that provide more public (and thus, union member) jobs.

All these lobbying dollars do not include contributions the four sub-groups make to political candidates, or spend to support or oppose statewide ballot propositions or local ballot measures. If such spending were included, that $45 million would skyrocketed into multiple hundreds of millions of dollars a year being spent by the local government/public employee lobby to gain--and then maintain--effective control over your state and local government. And with it, unlimited authority to tax you, and impose fees and assessments upon you and your homes and properties.

And where does all the money they spend or contribute come from? Just one source: directly or indirectly, your tax dollars fund their lobbying efforts and their political activities. So, again, isn't it about time you did something about all this? If your answer is "yes!", then stay tuned, and remember what crusty but honest old Howard Jarvis used to say: "They can't spend it if you don't give it to 'em to begin with." The only safeguard against exorbitant and unfair taxes, fees and assessments if your right to vote them up or down! Your right to do so is limited, now, and it's long past time that was changed.

That's how it seems, from where I stand.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

The Mexican government's Chiapas problem could do wonders for America's lagging economy. It shouldn't be difficult for our $28 billion per year C.I.A. (remember Director Casey and the remarkable Iran-Contra deals), to convince the common people (taxpayers) in America that our world-famous "national security" is in great danger.

Well, why not? A lot of people in Mexico, including Chiapas State, have been waiting patiently for 60 years for signs of democracy, and they are tired of waiting. Therefore, they must be "commies" of some sort, which automatically puts them under President Clinton's World Policeman mandate, making Mexico eligible for U.S. military aid (advisers, equipment, and U.S. money).

We should all be thankful that Mexico is so close to the U.S., a real advantage over shipping men and equipment all the way to Kuwait for "Desert Storm," or to Bosnia, or to protect South Korea, Japan, post WW2 Europe, Somalia. It may be already too late, but I keep hoping that our scientists will someday succeed in locating some intelligent life in outer space.

Stern warning about "working" on Carmel River banks

Persons undertaking Emergency Work without prior approval of the District shall bear sole responsibility for the adequacy and safety of such work, and shall be deemed to proceed at their own risk. The District, upon later review of the Emergency River Work Permit, reserves the right to require remedial action to bring such works into compliance with the Carmel River Management Plan.

Final permit approval will usually include conditions for streambank restoration, replanting with native streamside vegetation, and irrigation of this vegetation to strengthen the banks.

For information or assistance, call Larry Hampson or Nikki Nedeff at the District's Carmel Valley Field Office at 659-2543, or Andy Bell at the District headquarters in Monterey, 649-4866.

The Monterey County Water Resources Agency and the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (District) have issued Declarations of Emergency Status for the Carmel River resulting from the January 1995 flood event. These declarations will remain in effect until emergency conditions along the river no longer exist.

During this emergency:

Property owners may perform emergency river works projects to protect themselves from erosion and/or flooding. This includes placement of streambank protection, channel modifications, and removal of hazardous vegetation or debris (MPWMD Rule 126 C).

District staff is available to provide technical assistance to property owners. Such assistance can include technical recommendations regarding appropriate protection measures, and a list of contractors and materials suppliers.

The regular permit process can be streamlined during an emergency situation, provided that the protective river works mitigate a clear and present danger to life or property (MPWMD Rule 126C).

An application for an Emergency River Work Permit must be submitted to the District within 10 calendar days after the commencement of emergency work (MPWMD Rule 126D).

The intent of the Emergency River Work Permit is to ensure that any emergency work on the stream banks and river bed conforms, or will be brought into conformance with the technical standards promulgated by the District.

For those looking for more GS cookies

The annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale has been extended through Sunday, March 26.

According to Evelyn Brown, Director of Development and Communications for Girl Scouts of Monterey Bay, the rain and floods have put a definite damper on this year's cookie sales. Because of rain, many public sales were cancelled and girls in many troops have been unable to sell enough to meet program goals.

Proceeds from the cookie sale are the primary source of funding for Girl Scout activities in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties and have enabled the council to extend its programs to such traditionally under-served areas as Pajaro and South Monterey County. Without this vital income, some programs may have to be eliminated.

There are eight varieties of cookies, each selling for $3 a box. Snaps, a low-fat iced oatmeal-raisin cookie, was introduced this year.

"We know there are people we miss every year. But especially this year, we don't want that to happen," said Mrs. Brown.

Girl Scout cookies are available only once a year. To order, purchase them at the Council headquarters, 10550 Merritt St. in Castroville or call 1-800-MBGIRLS.

adopted in 1986, a trails plan was not adopted at that time.

The Carmel Valley Trails Plan identifies existing trails and existing trail easements and delineated flexible trail corridors running from Carmel State (lagoon) Beach to the Ventana Wilderness Area. The Monterey County Board of Supervisors received the Carmel Valley Trails Plan on January 24, 1995 and directed their staff to complete a needs assessment of the trail plan and to delineate areas where property owners refuse to allow trails to be constructed.

The CVPOA approved a motion to support the concept of a Carmel Valley Trails Plan and to proceed with the evaluation process. The date for the Board of Supervisors Public Hearing on the Carmel Valley Trails Plan has yet to be announced. Gillian Taylor explained that if the Board of Supervisors agree to proceed with the plan that it will be many years before its completion. The implementation phase will first prioritize trail segments to be completed and secondly exactly cite the trails in meetings between the Monterey County Planning Staff and property owners.

The CVPOA Traffic Committee reported on a March 1 meeting pertaining to a proposed traffic light at the Carmel Middle School. The County intends to proceed with installing a traffic light in the Carmel Middle School area to appease the concerns of the parents of 16 school children who live in Rio Vista across from the school. The parents in Rio Vista believe the area requires a traffic light as traffic congestion makes it difficult to take their children to school and they believe the current crosswalk is dangerous. The CVPOA does not support the installation of a traffic light at the Carmel Middle School because less expensive and less intrusive methods are readily available and because the Carmel Valley Master Plan states that the Carmel Valley Road is to be maintained as a rural road without stoplights.

At the March 1 meeting, CVPOA Director Ms. Bernardi suggested that the crosswalk be removed and that a safe trail, along an existing easement, to the current stoplight less than 6/10ths of a mile away be created. Another suggestion was to provide bussing and/or carpooling for the 16 students in Rio Vista instead of spending approximately $250,000 on a stoplight. Ms. Bernardi suggested to the School Board that the light would only move congestion into the school parking lot; the school board responded that they had not considered that possibility.

The county has suggested a July installation date for the traffic light although a public hearing date has yet to be announced.

In addition to the traffic light at the Middle School, the county is considering traffic lights at Rancho San Carlos, Laureles Grade and several other locations along Carmel Valley Road. Director Bernardi said that the CVPOA must take a strong stand against the infusion of traffic lights along Carmel Valley Road.

CVPOA President Eileen Crane-Franks announced that the Libraries Committee has been eliminated for 1995, however relevant library issues will still be brought to the CVPOA as necessary.

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association meets every second Wednesday at 7:30 at the Mid Valley Fire Department Community Room. The meeting is open to the public.

FUN IN THE SUN

Dave Lyon

A River Runs Through It. Again. The call has gone out once more to the good folk of Carmel Valley. Our friends and neighbors in the lower Robles Del Rio and Camp Steffani areas have once again had their lives torn upside-down, testing the resolve of even the long-time residents. These people now need the help of every single one of us. Many have lost everything for the second time; many are still homeless and will be for some time to come. The need is beyond words, and the time to help is now.

Please, send a support check to: Carmel Valley Flood Relief, P.O. Box 149, Carmel Valley, CA 93924. The people of these flood-ravaged areas are counting on you to help them through this very difficult time.

A Sure Sign of Spring. Speaking for myself and two cabin fever-stricken golden retrievers (and a cat who thinks the world has gone mad), I'm more than ready too put this past winter behind us and look forward to some annual renewal. With that thought in mind, it is now time to be checking your mailbox for that all-important spring newsletter from the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center! Not only is it packed full of everything you will ever need to know about the endless and exciting happenings down at the CVCYC, it also floats!

If you have not yet received your copy in the mail, simply contact the CVCYC office at 659-3983 and your free newsletter will be on its way! This action and info-packed publication is also available at the following locations: C.V. Library, The Oak Deli, Kasey's, Sweet Retreat, Murphy's Lumber, The River Rock Cafe, Randy's Market and the C.V. Post Office.

Getting Into the Swim of Things. A special feature of this newsletter is the complete guide to the up-coming pool season, including important info on the very popular swim lessons, as well as an up-to-the-minute report on the up-coming springboard diving and scuba classes to be offered at the pool! Yes, the Carmel Valley Community Pool will be opening on April 15th this year, just in time for Spring Vacation and, we hope, (cross those fingers) some warm, sunny weather! Now is the time to think about getting that Family or Individual Swim Pass, good for the entire, Endless Summer! Call the CVCYC office for all the details.

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center is very pleased to be sponsoring the popular Fiesta 10K Run this year, and volunteers are needed now to organize this special event! Call 659-3983 to learn how you can be a part of this new and improved local race around the village. Our many thanx to the Kiwanis gang for the chance to undertake this Fiesta Weekend challenge! (Rumor has it that CVCYC Resources Director Nick Craft is now in 10K training and was last seen running north-bound over Laureles Grade...) Watch this space for race sign-up info when the time comes.

Kick Up Your Heels. The Community Center is excited to bring to you, for your listening, dancing, and socializing pleasure, the first in a series of Community Dances. Join your friends and neighbors as the Community Hall on Ford Rd. is transformed into Hoofers, a nightclub with live and recorded music and refreshments served for your enjoyment.

The first dance at Hoofers will be on Saturday, April 8th, starting at 7:00 p.m. Admission is just $5 per person and beer, wine and soda will be available. Brought to you by the great minds behind the wildly successful "Night at the Old Buckeye". Hoofers Nightclub promises to be a hot new place to gather for dancing and hanging out with your friends!

Too Much Excitement for an old cowboy to handle...Prepare yourselves for the biggest new event Carmel Valley has seen in years! Mark those calendars for Saturday night, May 13th, as the CVCYC brings the Great Carmel Valley Round-Up to Hidden Valley Music Seminars! Do not miss this incredible evening of outstanding live country music, featuring the very popular local group Strictly Country followed by the Central Coast's own Eight Second Ride! These two excellent bands will highlight an evening of bar-b-que fixin's, a live and silent auction, raffle and door prizes, open bar and, of course, dancing till you drop!

The Carmel Valley Round-Up will replace the annual Monte Carlo fund-raiser as our biggest event held to benefit the programs, activities and operation of the Community Center. Your support, as always, is very important to us and we look forward to seeing everyone at this wonderful new community event. Watch this space for more info or contact the CVCYC for complete details or to learn how you can get involved.

Euro-Asian Pacific Rim cuisine comes to Spanish Bay

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Dunes Restaurant at Spanish Bay is being closed down and remodeled to make way for Roy's at Pebble Beach. Roy's at Pebble Beach is a joint venture between Spanish Bay and Roy Yamaguchi, renowned chef and owner of six restaurants including Roy's Kahuna Bar and Grill in Maui.

"Our mission at Spanish Bay is to elevate our restaurants to the same renown as our golf," said John Chadwell, general manager of the Inn at Spanish Bay.

Roy's at Pebble Beach will feature Yamaguchi style "Euro-Asian Pacific Rim" cuisine emphasizing local California fish and produce. To learn the Yamaguchi style of food preparation first hand, head Chef Greg Monette and his staff are training at Roy's restaurants in Hawaii.

REAL ESTATE Rand Smith

SLOW-MOVING PROPERTY IS NO JOKE

I recently heard a joke that's currently circulating among real estate agents that states one's preferred lineage would be "the first born child, the second spouse and the third agent to list a property."

Admittedly cynical, it does however get a laugh from most agents because of the difficulty they face in pricing a property to sell.

When an agent takes a listing, they have a specified time to sell the property, such as 90 or 180 days. If it doesn't sell in that time, the listing then "expires." And while the term expired conjures up rather cold images, it is a hot topic among real estate professionals. Some agents seek expired listings as their primary source for obtaining new properties to sell, accounting for the largest portion of their annual income.

Here's a not-too-uncommon scenario: Your property has been on the market for three months without a bite. Your agent feels bad, because he knows you want a certain amount for the property, and he can't seem to deliver. He calls and asks you to extend the listing for another 90 days. You know the market is tough, and you feel that he has stayed on top of things, so you agree.

When another 90 days goes by though, you're irritated. From your point of view the agent hasn't done his job and has put you on the back burner. But the agent feels lousy too. After spending time and money on ads, flyers, mailings, etc. and maybe suggesting you might have to reconsider your price, nothing has happened. With no commissions earned, the agent has had to literally pay to work for you. On the other hand, you want more marketing, not less. It's now uncomfortable for you both to talk, so this time you don't sign the extension, if he has even bothered to send one at all.

That's when it happens. As of midnight, your listing automatically becomes EXPIRED. At 7 a.m. the following morning "it" begins. The first call sounds sincere enough. An agent has noticed your property is no longer actively for sale and wonders if you are still interested in moving. Then another agent calls, and another and another. It is not unusual to have as many as 30 agents solicit your listing! It's not only overwhelming, it can be downright annoying when another agent calls, drops by, or mails you another letter requesting yet another appointment.

As you sort through it all, you choose 3 to 5 agents to come by and deliver their presentation, because you are a good consumer. You don't want to make the same mistake twice. This time you plan on selecting the agent very carefully. Each agent knows they are competing for the listing, so they are presenting their best proposal. You definitely feel in charge, even though you run a risk of over-analyzing the wrong reasons why your house hasn't sold.

And, unfortunately many sellers go with the best presented "plan" which often comes with a little more liberal judgment on price. The very best process of "interviewing" can therefore be self-defeating, and leave the seller with an inflated notion of the property's worth. This can occur simply by virtue of having so many agents who are suddenly interested in you and your property!

Imagine, now six months later, your disposition as a seller. It's been a year. It's been a drain. The "for sale" sign seems part of the permanent landscaping. So much has been tried. The reason for selling has been altered, and now you simply need to get out. Today! With all your experience, you recognize a good agent by the truth they speak. The price they advise gives you indigestion. You listen and submit. The property sells. The third agent succeeds. You have been initiated, and now you understand the "punch line" to the joke.

This is no joke, though, The biggest tragedy is the lost equity the homeowner has suffered, because last year's "true price" would have been much higher than this year's. But there are other consequences, too. The statistics that Realtors, appraisers, etc. must rely on to judge the market activity become tainted.

The number of days on the market; the ratio of list price to sale price; the value of sold comparables to active listings all become skewed, (i.e. it looks like a home sold for full price in 3 days at $117,000 when it actually took 368 days, 3 companies and a price drop of $15,000).

This inaccurate data further confuses the pricing judgment in the new properties that come on the market, and thus contributes to the cycle repeating itself with the next generation of sellers.

All of this tends to undermine the real estate agent's credibility. A new agent may "know" a property has only a chance of sel-

PROTECTION FROM CRIME ON THE PENINSULA

Complacency about crime is a major problem on the Monterey Peninsula. The idea that crime doesn't happen here is a false one; robbery, theft, rape and burglary are very real occurrences in the area. Because of the picturesque, quiet beauty of our coast, visitors and locals alike often don't take the normal steps to avoid crimes, such as locking car doors and hiding valuables from plain view of potential thieves.

So explained City of Carmel Chief of Police Donald Fuselier and Detective Sergeant Pete Poitras, when they recently answered Monterey County listeners' questions as guests of William L. Smith on his radio show, "Real Estate by Pacific Bay."

Fuselier emphasized that, "We'd like to convey the message that we have to be as vigilant here as anywhere else. Sadly, there are people living on the Peninsula who make their living stealing from others." He also stressed the importance of home or automobile alarm systems as a first line of defense and a definite deterrent to criminals, pointing out that a burglar is far more apt to choose the house or car without one.

Home systems range from an intrusion alarm to motion detectors and can be tailored to the specific needs of the owner.

Fuselier said that it is particularly crucial in the Carmel area to write the home's specific location next to the phone in the event a houseguest or vacation renter needs to notify the police of an emergency. He also pointed out that the Seniors Helping Seniors program has saved lives in Carmel. Seniors living alone are telephoned by a volunteer each morning and if a call goes unanswered, Carmel police are dispatched.

Contact your local police department's non-emergency number for more information on crime prevention.

scene was later matched to a Silver 1985 Cadillac reported stolen from Morse Drive, Carmel. Vehicle is still missing. More reports of vandalism may follow as discovered.

- A 16 year-old from Carmel Valley was arrested and taken to Juvenile Hall after a heated argument with his girlfriend.
- Carmel resident reported she believes her ex-husband has been entering her house for the past 2 years, taking things and hiding items. She has changed the locks but feels he is still getting inside. She also believes someone (again most likely her ex) is tapping or interfering with her telephone calls. The phone company had checked the line and said their wasn't a problem. They refuse to come out any longer when she calls them.
